

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A baking device is adapted to facilitate slicing of a baked item into precisely measured portions. The baking device comprises a conventional baking pan having a horizontal bottom wall and at least one upright peripheral wall, and measurement indicia. Measurement indicia are delineated on inner surfaces of the peripheral wall.